LUKE'S LATEST LITURGICS

I traveled to Arizona for a week back in January to visit my grandparents. I brought back a few souvenirs, my favorite one being a tiny golden-barrel cactus plant. Three months later, even after not having watered or repotted it (yet), it is still going strong. Looking back, I think one of my motivations for bringing back the cactus plant was to have another memento that could last a lifetime. Where even fifty-some years later I could derive some sort of comfort from something familiar. Life can change fast. Cactus plants don't (I think)?

There is a similar sentiment in this weekend's readings. If we remain in Christ and do his will, we will bear much fruit in our lives. If we remain as close and familiar to Christ as vines and branches do to each other, we will truly live and thrive. But like plants, we can really only thrive by remaining rooted. As Jesus says, plants that are not rooted wither and are thrown into the fire. One of the primary rules of gardening is that you better do something fast if you accidentally uproot something other than weeds. At first glance the words of Jesus might seem harsh. I'm not sure it really is harsh as much as it is fact and reality. God created us, as part of our human nature, to strive towards good. To strive towards a deeper relationship with him and others. If we want to continue growing in goodness, it would make sense that we would need to look to someone else who is more good than us.

And still, Jesus knows how hard this can be. The most important thing is to keep seeking; to try, try again. Find others who are seeking the same good and journey with them. Bear much fruit together. Pray every day and reflect on the gifts and talents that God has given you to use. Adopt a cactus near you.

The world more than ever needs your gifts. Happy continued Easter!
